

Western Green announces an Exclusive Distributor Partnership Agreement with Layfield Canada LTD.

September 1, 2021

Western Green is happy to announce a new Canadian distributorship agreement with Layfield for the distribution of the North American Green brand of erosion and sediment control products. Layfield is well-known for offering the best technical expertise and innovative solutions in the environmental and geosynthetics sectors.

With this agreement, Layfield will have access to the full line of North American Green products including, temporary erosion control blankets, permanent turf reinforcement mats, high-performance turf reinforcement mats, sediment control products, and the new Falcon Anchor Systems.

Our partnership was primarily formed out of the desire for both companies to serve the industry to a greater degree and to strengthen our joint leadership position with a wide range of quality erosion and sediment control solutions. We feel that this partnership will provide a greater level of technical and innovative solutions. This exclusive partnership covers the whole of Canada and is effective immediately.

About Western Green:

Western Green, and its associated erosion control brands North American Green, East Coast Erosion, and Western Excelsior, is the industry leader for manufactured erosion and sediment control products and holds the industry's most complete product line ranging from short term ECBs to permanent HPTRM Anchored Systems. In business since 1977, the Indiana based company currently has six locations in the United States and employees over 200. They serve customers in the United States and abroad, with quality brands to handle any erosion control issue. Additional information can be found at www.westerngreen.com.
